What's New at Historic Sandusky

New in the Archaeology Lab

Sandusky's archaeology lab, operated by Hurt and Proffitt, is now processing artifacts from a recent ill advised dig at Oak Hill Plantation. Which was filmed for the Discovery Channel's Rebel Gold series. Hurt and Proffitt were called in to perform an archaeological dig at the threatened site. Soon, artifacts will hopefully reveal more about the every day lives of the slaves who once lived on the plantation.

Lynchburg College and Historic Sandusky

As the LC and Sandusky partnership continues to grow, students are given a wider range of opportunities at Sandusky. Jobs for students in the archaeology lab will continue, as well as positions for graduate students. In addition to these positions, more internship and volunteer opportunities will be available beginning this summer.

Also being made available to the college and its students, faculty, and staff are a library which focuses on the Civil War and Lynchburg
